

It is very clear now that English should be the primary foreign language taught in all schools around the world. Learning a different foreign language before English is, in today's world, a waste of time.

Do you agree or disagree with this statement?

Language is the best way to communicate and express our own thoughts with others. In the world, most of the peoples are speaking English rather than their local language. However the English language is not a necessary to everyone to show their knowledge. In this essay I will discuss some arguments for and against the learning English is a waste of time.

Comment: is not necessary for

The modern world is going on behind the English language. Almost many of the countries are changing their national language is English. The strongest and best way of communicating with ()public is media and newspapers which are printed in higher percentage of English language. In addition the powerful source of our current world is ()computer which is using ()English language as its interpreter with ()user. There are many countries changed their first language as English and second language as their local language. For example the united state of America, the world richest and first economic resource country is using the English language as their national language.

Comment: [The modern world is going on behind the English language.] (I do not understand this)

Many countries are changing their national language to English (Is this true?)

Comment: the

Comment: newspapers which a large percentage are printed in the English language

Comment: the

Comment: the

Comment: the

Comment: changing

Comment: to

Comment: and their local language as their second language.

Comment: the United States of America (English IS and always has been, the first language of the USA?)

Comment: worried

Comment: it is clearly shown that learning other languages rather than English is waste of time (Where is it clearly shown? You state that China and Japan are leading without much knowledge of English)

Besides this, local language is also useful to survey local area peoples. Some countries are not worries about learning English language because they have knowledge to show their economic improvement with help of their national language. For instance, china and Japan are the countries which are leading without much knowledge in English.

In conclusion, it is clearly shows that learning other language rather than English is waste of time. In future the entire world people might be aware of one language for their communication.

A good essay but I suggest you read the comments and rewrite it. You must be careful that what you claim to be a fact is actually true.